POETRY OUT LOUD 2024-2025 RECRUITMENT LETTER/BLOG POST

Feel free to use this recruitment letter from National Endowment for the Arts in a blog post on your website or in your recruitment efforts.

From the desk of National Endowment for the Arts Chair Maria Rosario Jackson, PhD

This year marks a special milestone for Poetry Out Loud® as we commemorate the 20th anniversary of this transformative arts education program, which has enriched the lives of more than four million high school students nationwide since its inception in 2005.

Poetry Out Loud fosters community and connection by uniting students, educators, and organizations through the shared experience of celebrating poetry. With access to the Poetry Out Loud anthology of more than 1,200 classic and contemporary poems, students lift poetry off the page and explore themes that deepen their understanding of literary history, contemporary life, and their own lived experience.

Through the process of memorizing and reciting these poems, students are provided with the opportunity to nurture an appreciation for this artform while developing vital skills for personal and professional growth, such as public speaking. Poetry Out Loud resources, including lesson plans, recitation tips, and the poem anthology, are all available for free on the PoetryOutLoud.org website, making the significant impact of this program accessible to students and educators across the nation.

Students who participate in Poetry Out Loud may take part in classroom and school competitions, with finalists advancing to state competitions and ultimately to the national finals, where students from 55 states and jurisdictions compete for the grand prize of $20,000. Students may also engage through non-school organizations, such as after school clubs, libraries, and nonprofit organizations that also host Poetry Out Loud, and allow for advancement to state competitions. In total, Poetry Out Loud annually awards more than $100,000 to state- and national-level winners and their schools.

At the National Finals in Washington, DC, it is deeply moving to witness these students' profound understanding of poetry and performance. They not only display incredible poise, but a warmth and compassion towards their fellow competitors that is at the heart of what arts participation is all about: fostering empathy, bridging across divides, and creating connection through our shared humanity. Whether in the classroom or on the national finals stage, these young people are learning to forge relationships, use their voice, and ask questions about life's complexities; all essential tools for navigating our world today.

We hope you will join us in celebrating the 20th anniversary of Poetry Out Loud by introducing your students to an experience that will stay with them throughout their lives. Explore PoetryOutLoud.org to learn more about this program and how to host your own competition. You will also find contact information for the Poetry Out Loud coordinators nationwide who can help you bring Poetry Out Loud to students in your community.

POETRY OUT LOUD 2024-2025 FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What is Poetry Out Loud?

Poetry Out Loud® lifts poetry off the page, creating community and connection. Through this program, high school students across the country participate in a dynamic poetry recitation competition that is designed to improve their public speaking skills, help build confidence, and teach them about literary history and contemporary life. A partnership of the National Endowment for the Arts, the Poetry Foundation, and state and jurisdictional arts agencies, Poetry Out Loud® provides free lesson plans and other educational materials to teachers and organizers, including an online anthology of 1,200 classic and contemporary poems.

The program starts at the local level with a school or participating organization. Winners then may advance to a regional and/or state competition, and ultimately to the national finals. Awards and placements are determined solely by judges' scores based on the Poetry Out Loud Evaluation Criteria. Since the program began in 2005, more than 4.4 million students and 81,000 teachers from 20,000 schools across the U.S. have participated in Poetry Out Loud.

Where and when will Poetry Out Loud take place?

Poetry Out Loud takes place in all 50 states, American Samoa, the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands. The general timeline for the 2024-2025 Poetry Out Loud program is as follows (please contact your state coordinator for exact program dates in your state):

- High schools and organizations that choose to participate in the official competition conduct their programs and competitions between September and February.
- State competitions take place by early March.
- The 2025 Poetry Out Loud National Finals are planned for May 5-7, 2025, in Washington, DC. More information will be announced in the future.

Schools and organizations should contact their state/jurisdictional arts agency with any questions pertaining to live streaming or broadcasting their competitions.

Who can participate in the official Poetry Out Loud competition?

The official Poetry Out Loud competition is administered at the state level by state and jurisdictional arts agencies in all 50 states, American Samoa, the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands. Only schools and organizations registered with their state Poetry Out Loud coordinator are eligible for the competition; if you would like to get involved, contact your state arts agency. All types of high schools are welcome to participate, including public, private, parochial, independent, charter, etc., as well as homeschool students. Non-school organizations, such as after school clubs, libraries, or nonprofit organizations, may choose to run Poetry Out Loud as well. Students may only compete in one stream—either with their school or an organization. Students unable to participate at their school or a local organization should contact their state Poetry Out Loud coordinator to discuss other opportunities for inclusion in the state's official competition.

Only currently enrolled students in grades 9–12 are eligible, with an exception made for 8th-grade students participating in a 9th- through 12th-grade class. A Poetry Out Loud National Champion is not eligible to compete in future years.

No student may be excluded from participating in Poetry Out Loud on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, disability, or national origin. More information on Poetry Out Loud rules and eligibility may be found at PoetryOutLoud.org.

A partnership of
National Endowment for the Arts and
Poetry Foundation

Are schools and organizations that are not part of the official competition welcome to participate in other ways?

All of the Poetry Out Loud program materials are available for free online in the Teachers & Organizers section of the website. Using these online materials, schools and organizations are welcome to conduct their own “unofficial” poetry recitation competitions and introduce their students to classic and contemporary poetry. These unofficial competitions are ineligible for prizes administered by the Poetry Foundation.

Are program materials available?

Poetry Out Loud offers educators free, standards-based curriculum materials, which include an online poetry anthology with more than 1,200 classic and contemporary poems, a teachers’ guide, lesson plans, and video and audio on the art of recitation. These free resources are available at PoetryOutLoud.org.

What are the prizes?

National Level: A total of $50,000 in awards and school or organizational stipends will be given at the Poetry Out Loud National Finals:

- $20,000 for the National Champion
- $10,000 for 2nd place
- $5,000 for 3rd place
- $1,000 for 4th–9th places
- The representing schools/organizations of each of the top nine finalists receive $500 for the purchase of poetry materials.
- There will be one honorable mention in each of the three national semifinal competitions. Those students will not advance to the finals, but will each receive a $1,000 cash award and a $500 stipend for their school/organization.

State Level:

- $200 for each first-place winner
- $500 for poetry materials for each first-place winner’s school or organization
- $100 for one runner-up in each state
- $200 for the purchase of poetry materials for each runner-up’s school or organization.

The Poetry Foundation provides and administers all aspects of the monetary prizes awarded and travel arrangements to the Poetry Out Loud National Finals. Awards are made in the form of lump sum cash payouts, reportable to the IRS. Tax liabilities are the sole responsibility of the winners and their families. Full details on prize requirements and travel and accommodations requirements are available in the rules and eligibility section of the website.

What are the judging criteria?

All competitors are evaluated on the following criteria:

- Physical presence
- Voice and articulation
- Interpretation
- Evidence of understanding
- Overall performance
- Accuracy

For more information regarding these criteria, please consult the teacher’s guide.

POETRY OUT LOUD TALKING POINTS

This document is for internal use only, not for distribution. Feel free to use this language in your interviews with the media.

BACKGROUND ON POETRY OUT LOUD

- The National Endowment for the Arts and the Poetry Foundation created Poetry Out Loud®, which is managed in partnership with state and jurisdictional arts agencies and their partners. 2024-2025 marks the 20th anniversary of Poetry Out Loud.
- Poetry Out Loud is a dynamic poetry recitation competition for high school students across the country. It helps students improve their public speaking skills and build confidence, and teaches them about literary history and contemporary life.
- Since the program began in 2005, more than 4.4 million students and 81,000 teachers from 20,000 schools across the U.S. have participated in Poetry Out Loud.
- Poetry Out Loud begins at the local level with a school or organization. Non-school organizations, such as after school clubs, libraries, or nonprofit organizations, may also choose to run Poetry Out Loud as well. Students may only compete in one stream—either with their school or an organization.
- The state and jurisdictional arts agencies in all 50 states, American Samoa, District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands administer the official Poetry Out Loud program. Schools or organizations that wish to get involved should contact their state coordinator.
- Winners from the local competitions advance to their state/jurisdictional competitions in February and March, and then to the national finals in May in Washington, DC.
- The National Endowment for the Arts and the Poetry Foundation provide free program materials (teacher's guide, online poetry anthology, and posters) for use by participating schools or organizations. Free online program materials are also available for anyone interested. Materials are available online at PoetryOutLoud.org.

WHY WAS POETRY OUT LOUD CREATED? WHY IS POETRY OUT LOUD IMPORTANT?

- Arts education programs like Poetry Out Loud matter. National Endowment for the Arts research tells us that children who have arts opportunities in and out of school are much more likely to become adults who participate in the arts.
- To encourage the nation's youth to learn about great poetry, the National Endowment for the Arts and the Poetry Foundation jointly support Poetry Out Loud.
- Poetry Out Loud can impact students' academic performance by improving writing and analytical skills.
- Poetry Out Loud can increase students' appreciation of poetry. Through participation in Poetry Out Loud students can understand how poetry can reveal new ways to see the world, foster connection and empathy, and reach a greater understanding of ourselves, our past, and others.

A partnership of
National Endowment for the Arts and
Poetry Foundation

- Students who participate in Poetry Out Loud also showed an increase in self-confidence and found that reading and listening to poetry helped them think about situations from multiple perspectives.
- Poetry Out Loud can have a positive impact on schools, helping to build community, forging stronger connections between teachers and students, and bringing together students who may not have otherwise formed connections.
- In 2022, more than 29 million adults either read or listened to poetry via broadcasts, recordings, or web streaming, according to NEA research.

SOCIAL MEDIA TIPS

Social media channels such as blogs, Facebook, YouTube, Instagram, and X \(Twitter\) are useful tools to promote Poetry Out Loud in addition to traditional media (newspapers, radio and TV, magazines, online versions of these outlets). You can find the official Poetry Out Loud social media pages here:

- Poetry Out Loud Facebook Page
- Poetry Out Loud X \(Twitter\) (@PoetryOutLoud)
- Poetry Out Loud YouTube Channel

With social media, you play a different role: in addition to persuading traditional media to cover your story, you take on the role of the journalist—you tell your story about Poetry Out Loud directly to the public. Here are social media tips and tools to enhance your overall Poetry Out Loud communications plan.

KEY SOCIAL MEDIA IDEAS TO CONSIDER

Look at the big picture – Social media is a tool and not a strategy. Integrate social media tactics into your overall media outreach plan for Poetry Out Loud. Make sure your traditional media and social media tactics cross-reference each other (e.g., the blog points readers to the newsroom and vice versa; share your Facebook photos on your X (Twitter) account).

What’s your goal? Clarify why you are using particular social media channels to promote Poetry Out Loud. Are you trying to reach a new audience? Drive more people to your website?

Pick and choose – Every day there are more social media platforms. Pick the ones that will best help you share your Poetry Out Loud stories and news. What type of content do you have? How much time do you have to manage a particular platform? Which platforms are popular with your target audience? Make sure you understand the social media platform, its community, and its rules.

Make a game plan – Social media tactics are as time-intensive as traditional media tactics. Know what you can sustain and create a plan. Who will write, edit, produce, and approve new content, and how frequently? Who will respond to queries; will you respond to negative posts? Will you create content to share with partners, such as tweets or photos? Note that images are key to a successful social media strategy. Social media content with visuals often has a better success rate. If possible, use a cell-phone camera to capture high-quality, digital images of your activities and events. There are multiple sites online that now offer high-quality images under a Creative Commons or Creative Commons Zero license that you can use in addition to your own photos. There are also free graphic design platforms that you can utilize to edit images and create your own graphics.

Find your voice – Social media users join communities that offer interesting, informative, useful, and fun content. This is a great opportunity to make poetry come alive through humor, personality, interesting perspectives, and discussion.

Use the “80/20” rule – Social media is about sharing so a good rule of thumb is to use 80 percent of your social media content to reference content by other organizations and experts. Invite your state’s Poet Laureate to guest post on your blog. “Retweet” a relevant post or link to an article about poetry. Then use the other 20 percent of your posts to highlight your Poetry Out Loud announcements and conversations. Consider following the Poetry Out Loud, National Endowment for the Arts, and the Poetry Foundation X (Twitter) feeds for ideas on content to share.

Engage! It’s called social media for a reason. Aim for two-way conversations. If possible, enable comments on your blog, or YouTube. (But don’t forget to include a community engagement policy.) Consider crowd-sourced content. Think about ways you can encourage the students participating in the program—whether it’s at the classroom or local level or state level—to share their participation in Poetry Out Loud. See what your school’s social media policy will allow and if exceptions can be made to encourage participation at the school level.

National Endowment for the Arts and
Poetry Foundation

Make it easy to share – Make sure your social media channels are easy to find on your website. For example, add the “follow us on X (Twitter)/Facebook/YouTube/other” buttons to your website home page or newsroom page. Include social media channels on your press announcements and in your organizational e-signature. Mention them at your events. Tag your posts with #POL2025, #POL20Years, and/or #IAmPoetryOutLoud. Remember that social media is part of your branding effort; if possible, be consistent with the names you use on each of your social media platforms.

Use visuals—Social media content with visuals often has a better success rate. Use a cell phone camera to capture high-quality, digital images of your events or use images from past events in your promotion. Make sure you have permission to use the images you’ve selected (and adhere to your school or organization’s media/audio/visual permissions policy). Short videos are also a great way to engage followers on social media and do not have to be professionally shot or edited to make great content. Try capturing informal interviews with teachers, coaches, and students to share on your feed.

Use ALT tags and captions—To make sure your content is accessible to people with low or no vision, it's best practice to write ALT tags for any images included in your content. ALT tags are short descriptions of what is shown in each image. Each social media platform has different character limits and procedures for adding ALT tags; you should be able to access this information on the platform's help page. When creating videos, make sure your video has imbedded captions. (Platforms like Instagram and YouTube have built-in captioning available.)

Measure what you want to know – Every organization has different ways of measuring engagement. Is it the number of clicks on a certain link? Is it the amount of time a user spends reading your content? Is it ticket sales? Think about which metrics are important to your organization, and develop a strategy for measuring those elements. While there are paid services to help with this step, there are also many free services available—including those available in the social platforms themselves (e.g., the “Professional Dashboard” within your Facebook channel)—that you can bundle to get a fairly robust picture of your content’s performance.

SOCIAL MEDIA PLATFORMS

Blog

- If your arts agency or participating school has a blog, post updates on Poetry Out Loud at least once a week. If you publish less than 3x/week, choose consistent dates.
- Blog content might include a student interview with a teacher or artist involved in Poetry Out Loud, a student writing about their favorite poem, tips for participating in the competition, or a link to a press release on statewide or school competition.

Instagram

- Instagram is an easy way to share visual content and short videos. Instagram lets you capture moments as they happen via stories, and you can share photos or video after the fact “on the grid.”
- You can share poetry that is in the public domain or snapshots from classroom, school, regional, or state competitions.
- You can also post short videos on Instagram. Instagram content is easily shareable to Facebook, so it’s a great way to get a lot of bang for your buck from one piece of visual content. As with X (Twitter), images on Instagram can be grouped by hashtags, e.g. #POL2025 or #IAmPoetryOutLoud. You can also encourage members of your community to share photos from your events on their own Instagram accounts with these hashtags

- There are many tools available that will enable you to “regram,” or share photos from other Instagram profiles in your organization’s Instagram stories. Instagram also allows for collaborative posts—if your school/organization is collaborating with a community partner or inviting a local celebrity to host your competition, consider a collaborative post to increase your reach.

X (Twitter)

- Use X \(Twitter\) to share short thoughts about Poetry Out Loud—at 280 characters or fewer per post (please note that this platform no longer includes handles or images in the character count).
- Invite your audience to follow your handle. Arts agencies can invite other arts organizations. Schools can invite parents to follow their X (Twitter) feed to keep track of the program at the local level. You can ask your followers to retweet your posts and help spread the news. You can also use your account to have conversations with your followers.
- Your X (Twitter) posting frequency will vary based on the content you have to publish. Aim for 1–2 pre-written posts a day. Consider “re-tweeting” (RT, or copying) relevant posts from others you are following on the platform. Be selective and develop guidelines for the types of content you are RTing.
- Include an image with your post. (The platform will allow you to attach up to four images with a post.) If you are using only one image, try to use one that’s oriented horizontally so the platform won’t cut the top off your image.
- Use X (Twitter) to provide “play-by-play” commentary during the competitions. You can also send out interesting trivia about the poems, the poets, and the competitors. You can also post videos of up to 140 seconds, which could be a way to share short interviews with participating students.
- Use a hashtag to help users follow conversations about your competition. You can use #POL2025 for general posts about the competition and tag photos of your Poetry Out Loud community—students, parents, teachers, judges, etc.—with #IAmPoetryOutLoud. As we highlight the 20th anniversary of the program, you can also use #POL20Years whether your school/organization is new to the program or has participated since it began.
- Also use the hashtags #POL2025 and #IAmPoetryOutLoud to search for other people who are posting about Poetry Out Loud—and to help them find you.
- When you register for a free X (Twitter) account, you will have to select several accounts to follow (get their posts sent to you) so make sure to do this research beforehand. There are online search engines to help you find users with similar interests that you can follow.
- Follow and/or tag, or retweet content from @PoetryOutLoud, @NEAarts, and @PoetryFound.

Facebook

- Facebook is an online community space; you can register for a group page, and invite people on Facebook who are participating in your Poetry Out Loud program to join the group. A group page is a great way to keep participants updated on events, share photos, and encourage conversations before and after your events. You can set up your Facebook group page to be public or hidden, and you can also make it a moderated forum. Make sure to create a comment policy for your Facebook page.
- Follow the national Poetry Out Loud Facebook page, and let the National Endowment for the Arts Poetry Out Loud staff know you have a Facebook page so they can follow you.
- Use the Facebook page to share news about the program, content from your blog, photos from your events.

YouTube

- The average viewer spends only 1–2 minutes watching a YouTube video, so plan your videos accordingly.
- Highlight videos that complement Poetry Out Loud learning objectives. Be aware of copyright issues when featuring poetry online—not all poems in the Poetry Out Loud catalog are in the public domain, including those that are pre-20th century.

A partnership of
National Endowment for the Arts and
Poetry Foundation

- Each year, several state schools for the Deaf participate in Poetry Out Loud. Make your video accessible to Deaf or hard of hearing audiences by using YouTube’s easy captioning options. Alternatively, you can post a transcript of the poem with the video. Fill out the “description” section in detail, and include a link to your website. Use YouTube video tags (descriptive words) to help viewers find your video when using the YouTube search engine.

There are many more social channels to help share news about Poetry Out Loud. On platforms that use hashtags, make sure to tag your content to help people who are interested in the program find your content.

PR TIPS FOR SCHOOLS AND ORGANIZATIONS—Promotional Ideas & PR Tips

Poetry Out Loud is a great way to generate positive visibility for your school or organization and raise school spirit. Here are some simple ways to increase awareness of Poetry Out Loud and share your students' achievements with the community at large.

In your school/organization

- Post notices announcing the competition and champions at your school/organization and/or on your website, newsletter, student newspaper, or social media pages. Use the Poetry Out Loud logo to celebrate your involvement.
- Write an article about the school-wide competition for your PTA/PTO newsletter.
- Announce classroom winners and the school-wide competition in the daily PA broadcast, at assemblies, or on the school's YouTube channel.
- Include a "poem-a-day" poetry recitation in the daily PA broadcast.
- "Live Tweet" a Poetry Out Loud competition or share photos on Instagram. Remember to use the #POL2025 or #IAmPoetryOutLoud hashtags.
- Organize a viewing party of the Poetry Out Loud national finals webcast. Visit arts.gov/Poetry-Out-Loud in Spring 2025 for more details on the live webcast. (Please note that Poetry Out Loud webcast viewing parties are intended solely as educational events to help foster dialogue about poetry, and about the Poetry Out Loud National Finals. Poetry Out Loud webcast viewing parties must be free of charge, no purchase requirements of any kind.)
- Arrange for your class to watch online or attend your region or state Poetry Out Loud competition.

In your community

- If your competition is open to the public, call your community newspaper (we suggest the metro section editor), and invite them to attend the competition or watch the webcast.
- Invite a prominent member of the local media to serve as a judge or master of ceremonies for the competition.
- After the event, send the local newspaper a follow-up press release highlighting the competition, your involvement in Poetry Out Loud, and photos from your event or photos of your local champions.
- Send a letter to the editor of your local newspaper. Use the letter to showcase your school or organization's participation in Poetry Out Loud, and to discuss the benefits of taking part in a national program like this.
- Follow other local community or educational organizations on Facebook, Instagram, X (Twitter), and YouTube to build a social media network for your school (including Poetry Out Loud) and start sharing your #POL2025 news.

About the National Endowment for the Arts

Established by Congress in 1965, the National Endowment for the Arts is the independent federal agency whose funding and support gives Americans the opportunity to participate in the arts, exercise their imaginations, and develop their creative capacities. Through partnerships with state arts agencies, local leaders, other federal agencies, and the philanthropic sector, the Arts Endowment supports arts learning, affirms and celebrates America's rich and diverse cultural heritage, and extends its work to promote equal access to the arts in every community across America. Visit arts.gov to learn more.
